ROT! ROT! ROT! ROTTEN!

THAT'S WHAT THE SO-CALLED GAME WAS YESTERDAY.

The Cincinnati Reds defeated a Cincinnati team of nine by a score of 17 to 8-A Few Notes.

Yesterday morning about 250 enthusiasts and rooters for the Mayville Baseball Club went to Cincinnati to see a game of ball—the kind the Mayville Club put up at home.

After arriving at Cincinnati it was found that there was no Mayville Club, only a few of the old players.

Manager Watson hustled around and got together a club of Cincinnati amateur talent.

A fellow by the name of Diehl tried to play second.

A fellow by the name of Johnson tried to play short.

A fellow by the name of Kehoe tried to catch.

A fellow by the name of Burke tried to play right.

Of all the miserable failures these new recruits were in G in every particular.

The long and short of it all is they didn't know how to play ball.

The so-called Mayville Club had been a peach for "Tacks" Parrott, but Buck put Foreman in, and if the regular Mayville team—the one that went down to play the game—McGinn, Wadsworth, Hall, Zimmer, Cox, Wellner, Sutherland, Van Winkle and Dick Smith—had been allowed to play they would have shut out the Reds.

But instead the regular club has to stand the guy of the people for what somebody else did.

Reiman was put in to pitch, and after the Reds had scored 17 runs he was taken out and Dick Smith put in at the eighth inning, after which the Reds never got to first.

Had the game been played as all thought it was in the morning—Hall on short, McGinn on second, Wadsworth in center, Zimmer behind the bat and Smith in the box—the Reds would have never scored a single run.

At the start Cincinnati took the bat, and they knew how to handle it. Burke hit to short, who fumbled it, and Eddie lived. Hoy hit to Sutherland, who fumbled it, and the Dummy lived. McPhee hit to right center for three bags, scoring the two runners. Parrott hit to second, and that fodder-stalk fumbled it, and "Tacks" lived. Miller got out—second and third. Smith rolled one down to short, who waited for it, and after he got it fumbled it long enough to give the runner life. Latham rolled an easy one down past third, and made two to one. Gray lined out a good one for two bags. Foreman made an out. Burke singled, and Hoy went out.

After that inning there was no more life in the game than in a tombstone. Everybody shuddered at the idea of being shook down by such a club as that wearing Mayville uniforms.

On our half of the first Van Winkle walked. Diehl went out. Johnson doubled to right, and Van scored. Kehoe doubled to right and Johnson only took third. McGinn doubled to center and both runners scored. Sutherland hit for one, McGinn scoring. Burke, the right fielder, out, and so did Cox.

No more runs were made on either side until the sixth inning, when the Reds got four and the make outs two.

In the seventh the Reds got four more, while the jokes only rubbed one more.

In the second inning McGinn made a beautiful catch of a low fly to deep center with his left hand, and in the fourth made one of the most sensational catches ever seen on the grounds. He run fully two squares and caught the ball, and everybody took their hats to him. Mac is a ball player of the best kind—better, in fact, than anything the Reds have got.

The batteries were—Mayville, Reiman, Smith and Kehoe; Cincinnati, Foreman and Gray.

Here's the game by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Cincinnati	0	0	0	0	0	4	0	0	1
Mayville	5	0	0	0	0	2	0	0	0

SHORT STOPS.

The crowd numbered about 2,000, and it was a sore one after the game.

Twenty hits in seven innings is a splendid showing for a League aspirant.

If Hellman was in the game yesterday the score would have been quite different.

This Lebron is indebted to the Cincinnati reporters for courtesies extended—

We would be pleased to take another trip to Cincinnati to see the same teams play again—in a horn!

That shortstop and that second baseman for the Mayvilles should have their dues and be placed in a line of boys.

Yesterday's defeat was no disgrace to the Mayville team for the simple reason it was not the Mayville team that played.

The Reds want to play here October 4th. By all means let them come. There will be about seven people out to see them.

The crowd was composed of old-time rooters from way back, and all were for Mayville, but we didn't have our team, and of course went down in glorious defeat.

Reiman wanted $25 yesterday morning to pitch the game. Had the management given him $25 to have stayed off the grounds we would have had a great deal better.

Smith was put in in the eighth inning, and no man went to first. Had Richie been in at the start there's no one to doubt the fact that the Reds would have even got a run.

Had the people of Mayville known that Reiman was going to pitch that game yesterday it is safe to say that the crowd from this city could have been counted on your fingers, and you'd have some left.

Wonder what is the matter with Hall, Wadsworth, Wellner, Zimmer and Smith that they are in the game? Was the question fired at us yesterday by a number of Mayville people, and all we could say was "Wonder."

WEEKLY CROP REPORT.

UNCLE SAM'S WEATHER CLERK ON THE PROSPECTS.

Condition of Cereals and the Small Crops Throughout Kentucky Up to Monday Evening Last.

The weather conditions of the past week were not generally favorable to crops, though the advanced stage of all vegetation enables it to withstand them with less injury than they had occurred earlier in the season. Scattered light showers fell at various places in the state during the week, occurring most frequently in the Eastern sections; but, generally speaking, the week has been very hot and dry. The temperature has been abnormally high for the season, and many correspondents report maximum temperatures of 95° and over upon several days of the week.

The chief injurious effects of the conditions described have been to pastures, which many correspondents state are badly burned by the hot dry weather, and that stock is suffering for food and in many localities the water supply is insufficient for its needs. The majority of the complaints of this character come from the Northern and Northwestern counties. Some localities in other sections than those named report similar conditions, but, as a rule, the drought has most seriously affected pastures in the Eastern half of the state.

Tobacco is ripening rapidly, and upland tobacco is being cut and housed, the weather conditions favoring the work. In some localities much tobacco has been cut green on account of "driving," resulting from the excessive heat, and will, therefore, be of inferior quality. At the present outlook it would appear that all the tobacco yet remaining in the fields would be safely housed before the average date of the first killing frost in Kentucky, October 6th. Some complaint is made of tobacco worms, but the crop generally has not suffered from this cause, and the outlook for it as a whole is very favorable.

The dry weather has hastened the maturity of corn, and this fact may slightly affect its quality in some localities. The earlier fields are now being cut and the work will be in progress from now on to the end of the season. Very little will be exposed to damage from frost. There is but little deviation from the fact in the report regarding this crop which have been received during the past two months or more.

Fall plowing is progressing very rapidly and seeding will be commenced within the course of the next week or ten days.

Clover seed is reported to be abundant, and is being hulled.

Apples are very abundant and under favorable weather conditions, the latest varieties are rapidly advancing to maturity.

Melons of all kinds are of fine quality and very plentiful.

The reports relative to late Irish potatoes are somewhat conflicting in character, but their general condition is fair. Good soaking rains would greatly improve the prospects for all crops yet unharvested.
